

DRAGNET THROWN OUT FOR GEM-LADEN CAT

Whole Neighborhood Gets Excited When Sadie Picks Up a Jewelry Bag and Takes to the Empty Lots With Big Crowd in Her Wake.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—It was the earliest mouse Sadie, the cat, ever tackled. It made no attempt to elude her, and seemed to die instantly. But Sadie decided to torture it for a while to be true to her racial instinct. She promised herself a fine meal, for it was a large, fat mouse. She carried it out on the front stoop of the apartment house in West Ninety-second street, where she resides in the janitor's family.

The fourteen-year-old son of Mrs. Lillian Stumpf, who lives in the building, happened along. He saw Sadie's prize.

"Gee, whilkkins!" he gasped. "It's mama's jewels!" And he made a rush at Sadie that nearly scared her out of her wits.

But she was too quick for him. Across the street she fled with the jewel in her mouth. She took the high board fence at a bound, and the boy took it, too. With the gray bit of prey still in her mouth he saw her vanish.

In fields afar. In great excitement he ran home and told his mother. Within five minutes half the neighborhood was on the hunt for Sadie's mouse. They didn't find it.

But if Sadie ate it she is inwardly adorned with more jewels than ever cat wore before; namely, one crescent diamond brooch, of twenty-six stones; one band ring, with four large diamonds, a sapphire, ruby and diamond ring, a pair of two-carat earrings. All worth about $2,800.

Mrs. Stumpf, who is the only woman resident buyer in New York (she represents a San Francisco firm having taken the place of her late husband), had the jewels in a gray suede bag, which she wore around her neck. When she returned home Sunday night, she found the bag on a table which was covered with newspapers. Before retiring she gathered up the newspapers and put them on the dumb waiter. Yesterday morning she couldn't find the jewel bag. The dumb waiter had descended.

MOOSE PLANNING FOR MORE HERDS

Extensive Campaign to Enlarge Order Throughout Country.

An extensive campaign to enlarge the membership and increase the number of herds of the social order of Moose was outlined this morning before the delegates of the seventeen herds now in existence, who are now holding their annual convention in this city. The meeting this morning was at the Elbitt House.

Various plans to effect this end were discussed, and that finally decided upon was to send organizers into the field. Before the next convention it is hoped to have a herd in practically every large city in the United States.

A large part of the meeting this morning was devoted to the reports of committee, and these will be continued at the session this afternoon.

A resolution was passed to be forwarded to the executive of Virginia, urging that admission to the tomb of George Washington, at Mt. Vernon, be made free. An admission of 25 cents is now charged, and the report of the directors of Mt. Vernon shows that receipts are in excess of the expenditures.

This afternoon the wives and friends of the visiting delegates will go on a sight-seeing tour of the city in automobiles. This evening a ball and banquet will be given in the New Masonic Temple.

Tomorrow has been set for the election of officers and a lively contest is expected.

WASHINGTON MAN HELD FOR ROBBERY

William J. Brown Is Under Arrest in Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 12.—William J. Brown, thirty-five years old, who says his home is on M street southwest, Washington, was held for court this morning on the charge of stealing a dress suit case and clothing from Mate Crook, of the oyster punky Annie Gertrude. Brown was also a member of the punky's crew.

Capt. William Evans saw Brown leave the vessel, and as he had just paid $3.50 for his services followed him. Brown was arrested by Sergeant Potter after he had disposed of part of the goods. Brown admits that he had served a previous term in jail. Captain Evans says he is $3.50 out on the deal.
